This mini book review is great to use with independent reading. It is so quick that students don't mind filling them out. Two possible ways to use these:

- Keep all mini book reviews in a large binder in your class library. File each new review alphabetically, ideally with reviews for the same book all together. Use alphabet tabs to make browsing easier. Students can use the binder to get book recommendations from their classmates.
- Have students keep their book reviews in a binder chronologically. At the end of the year, they can look back at all the books they have read.
